

ACRO-NATURE: Inaugurated in the summer of 2004, this forest adventure course offers 4 circuits with 58 stations: mobile beams, accordion footbridges, timber ladders and zip-lines, including one over 987 feet (300,84 metres) long! This activity is ideal for high school students.

Equipment: The equipment, which meets current safety standards, is provided on site (harness, gloves and carabiners). Comfortable clothing and appropriate footwear are recommended. To ensure safety, the activities are performed under the supervision of trained monitors.

Accessible and safe

Although the ultimate aim is thrills, chills, and strong emotions, the entire gaming site has been designed for the utmost safety. All participants of the original course must be at least 69” (measured with arms up) to ensure that cables can be used without assistance.

The challenges require varying levels of physical fitness and bravery but can accommodate almost everyone.

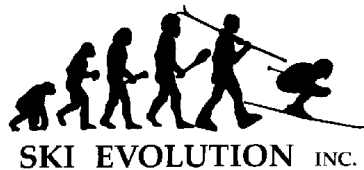

The Junior Adventure course now offers 2 new itineraries specially developed for elementary school age students. Located at the bottom of the hill, all 15 obstacles are adapted to children 6 to 10 (measuring between 52 and 69 inches arm up).

Just like the adults’, the junior course will feature mobile wood beams, rope bridges, timber ladders and ... some exhilarating zip lines!!!

ACRO-NATURE RULES

Two and a half hours to three and a half of adventure and tranquility; but there are some strict rules to follow!

Before you start out on the course, safety instructions will be provided during a mandatory initiation session.

You ensure your own safety with Individual Protective Equipment (IPE), provided by ACRO-NATURE; you must secure yourself permanently to the lifeline installed along the entire circuit.

After the initiation session, if you feel that you will be unable to complete the course safely and on your own, you must withdraw from the activity.

When you are on the course, you must be sure of your abilities and take charge of yourself physically, morally and mentally. In case of problems, there is a team of trained operators along the course ready to provide guidance and advice; they will be wearing ACRO-NATURE uniforms.

In case of bad weather conditions (high winds, storms, etc.), the management reserves the right to evacuate the course for your safety. If this happens less than an hour after your departure, you will receive a free pass for another visit.

It is expressly forbidden for anyone who is not registered to climb on the structures. Pathways are provided.
